PEMBROKESHIRE FRIENDS OF THE EARTH

Lively Environmental Hustings Meeting

A lively discussion on environmental issues, involving all six election candidates for the Carmarthen West and South Pembrokeshire constituency, attracted a full house at the Seminar Room at the Bloomfield Community Centre, Narberth recently (Tuesday 14th of April).

The election hustings meeting, which was organised by the Pembrokeshire and Carmarthenshire Friends of the Earth groups, saw the candidates respond to questions on issues such as climate change, dualling the A 40, wind and solar power, and public transport. Members of the audience also made important contributions to the debate, which was chaired by the former director of Friends of the Earth Cymru, Gordon James.
